

Dr Terry F Yosie

President and CEO, World Environment Center

The World Environment Center is a global non-profit, non-advocacy organization whose mission is to implement sustainable development through the business strategies and operations of global companies in partnership with government agencies, multi-lateral institutions, non-governmental organizations, universities, and other stakeholders.

WEC's principal areas of focus have included clean production, climate change, energy efficiency, enterprise development, greening the supply chain, and technological innovation. In his capacity as President and CEO, Dr Yosie is responsible for strategy development and implementation of WEC's unique business model. He has held senior level appointments with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, the private sector, and management consulting organizations. He received his Doctorate in Humanities and Social Sciences from Carnegie Mellon University in 1981 and is the author of more than sixty professional publications.
